Octorand is Unique

Octorand was the first Algorand NFT project to build an integrated ecosystem on top of Algorand blockchain. Enabling an ever-evolving ecosystem, including messaging, gameplay and collecting, all using the power of Algorand's blockchain technology.

Octorand is Unique

Blockchain Based

Almost all of the main data and features are stored and executed on the blockchain.

Built on Smart Contracts

Octorand smart contracts do not use local storage and exclusively use global storage. This means anyone can interact with them without opting in first.

Evolution Possible

Leveraging smart contracts, Algorand Standard Assets (ASAs) store the traits, market listing settings, and the number of votes in their storage. Users can only change these values based on the smart contract's logic. The smart contracts use the Algorand atomic transfers feature to ensure all conditions are met before carrying out function executions.

Significant decentralization and security has also been achieved with controls and contingency plans in place over the smart contract, wallet and other key infrastructure

Octorand Updates

Season 1 (May – August 2022)

Seasons in Octorand will run for four months. Each season will host a number of events, contests and major developments.

Introducing a digital showcase to present the highest scoring and most creative primes to the world. It will display Primes based on various criteria such as most voted, most transformed, latest sale, latest transform, highest sale, developer favorites, etc.

Player Messaging

We are building an on-chain messaging system for Octorand to enable direct communications between players. All messages will be stored on-chain for full transparency. Players will be able to ping a Prime or a wallet address when messaging.

OCTODRAW

OCTODRAW is the next dAPP to be released. OCTODRAW is a project that enables players to activate, paint and animate an artwork of pixels for their primes.
